ABOUT THE A's

ABOUT THE A'S: Were swept in a two-game series at Tampa Bay to start the road trip and have lost two straight for the third time this year...that includes a season-high three-game losing streak from April 18-21...are 6-8 over the last 14 games after starting the year 6-2...remain in first place in the American League West for the 22nd consecutive day (20 days alone in first, two days tied for first)...that is the A's longest streak of consecutive days in first since 2006 when they spent the final 65 days of the season in first...had no days in first from May 13, 2008 through the end of the 2009 season...are 12-10 and are above .500 after 22 games for the second time in the last seven years (13-9 in 2008)...have been over .500 every day since the third game of the season (April 7)...spent just one day over .500 last year (2-1, April 8)...went 75-87 last year, their third consecutive season with a losing record...it marks the first time the A's have finished with a losing record in three straight seasons since 1993-98 when they had six straight.

IN APRIL: The A's are 12-10 in April with two games remaining...need one more win to clinch a winning record in the month for just the second time in the last seven years...the other time was in 2008 when they went 16-11...have 12 stolen bases, which are the A's most in the first month of the season since swiping 19 bases in April of 1998...the A's are batting .258 and they have not hit over .256 in the first month of the season since 2003 (.262)...the bullpen has recorded three saves, their fewest in a full month of April since 1994 when they had one...the three save opportunities are their fewest in a full month of April since 1981 when they had just one (starters completed 17 of 21 games that year in April).

THE DISABLED LIST: The A's used the disabled list for the ninth time this year Tuesday when Brett Anderson was added...in 2005 the A's used the DL eight times the entire season...used the DL 17 times last year and have now used it 73 times since the start of the 2007 season...began the year with six players on the DL and it currently stands at eight (Anderson, Buck, Crisp, Devine, Ellis, Meloan, Outman, Wuertz)...that matches last year's season high for most player on the DL at once (June 3 to 11, August 1 to 6 and August 18 to 20)...have had at least five players on the DL all year and have not had fewer than five players on the DL since April 28 of last year when they had four...have not had fewer than three players on the DL since the end of the 2006 season, when they had just one.

PITCHING: The A's allowed a season high 10 runs last night after yielding a season high tying eight runs the night before...have allowed 24 runs in the last four games (24 er in 34.0 ip, 6.35 ERA), which includes a shutout on Sunday against Cleveland...have three shutouts for the season, which is tied with Minnesota for the American League lead...have allowed four runs or fewer in 15 of the 22 games this year and rank third in the AL with a 3.52 ERA...are tied for the third fewest home runs allowed in the AL (16) and rank fourth in opponents batting average (.242)...combined to shutout Cleveland 11-0 last Sunday after blanking the Tribe 10-0 on Friday...that marks the second time in Oakland history the A's have won two shutouts by 10 or more runs in the same series...the other time came on September 9-10, 2000 against Tampa Bay (also 10-0 and 11-0).

STARTING PITCHING: A's starting pitchers allowed 14 runs in 8.0 innings (15.75 ERA) in the two-game series at Tampa Bay after allowing just one run in 19.0 ip (0.47 ERA) in the previous three-game series against Cleveland...starters have tossed just 4.0 innings in each of the last two games, the shortest outings by A's starting pitchers this year...starters have not allowed a run in six of the first 22 games and have yielded three runs or less 17 times...are 9-5 with a 3.48 ERA (49 er in 126.2 ip) for the season...the ERA ranks third in the American League and starters have allowed nine home runs, which is tied for the fewest...the A's are 8-1 in games started by Justin Duchscherer (4-0) and Dallas Braden (4-1) and 4-9 in all other games.

OFFENSE: The A's have scored 31 runs over the last five games after tallying 27 runs over the previous nine games...are batting .295 (57 for 193) with 18 extra base hits over that span after hitting .215 with 16 extra base hits over the previous nine games...scored six runs Tuesday and lost, the first time this year the A's have scored more than three runs in a game and lost...are 11-1 when scoring four runs or more and 1-9 when scoring fewer than four runs in a game...are tied for the third fewest home runs in the American League (15)...have been successful in 12 of 14 (85.7%) stolen base attempts, which is the second best percentage in the AL behind Toronto (14 of 16, 87.5%).

DEFENSIVE DOINGS: The A's have committed three errors in the last two games after a season best six-game errorless streak...now have 16 errors for the season, which is tied for second most in the American League.

CLOSE CALLS: Five of the A's 10 losses this year have been by two runs or less...10 of the A's 22 games have been decided by two runs or less and they are 5-5 in those games, including 3-1 in one-run decisions...have the best winning percentage in one-run games in the American League but the four one-run games are tied for second fewest...eight of the A's first 22 games have been decided in the seventh inning or later and they are 4-4 in those games...including 3-3 in games decided in the last at bat...have three walk-off wins after tallying just five in all of 2009.

HOME AND AWAY: The A's are 0-2 on this six-game road trip against Tampa Bay (0-2) and Toronto (four games) and have lost each of their last four road games...went 3-3 on the first road trip of the season to Los Angeles (2-1) and Seattle (1-2)...are 3-5 on the road compared to 9-5 at home...went 6-4 on the last homestand against Baltimore (3-1), New York (1-2) and Cleveland (2-1), the A's longest homestand of the season...are batting .226 (64 for 283) on the road compared to .272 at home.

THIS AND THAT: The A's are 3-0 on Thursday, 3-0 on Friday and 6-10 on the other five days of the week...are 6-2 in day games, which is the best record in the majors...have a 6-8 record at night...are 9-3 (.750) when scoring first, which is tied for the second best record in the American League...after starting the season with a major league long streak of 14 consecutive days without a day off, the A's are in a 22-day stretch from April 19 to May 10 where they are scheduled to have four days off...went 9-5 over the first 14 games and are 3-5 since the first off day on April 19.

A's vs. BLUE JAYS

The A's lost their second consecutive season series to the Blue Jays last year, 3-6...lost two of three here in Toronto and dropped four of six in Oakland...have now lost 12 of their last 15 games to the Blue Jays, including six of the last seven at Rogers Centre...hit .211 against Toronto last year, their lowest mark ever against the Blue Jays...all-time, the A's are 190-163 against the Blue Jays...that includes 92-85 in Oakland 98-76 in Toronto and 0-2 in Las Vegas.

TODAY'S TIDBITS

Andrew Bailey has a career high 16.0-inning scoreless streak dating back to September 6 of last year...he has converted each of his last 23 save opportunities, which is the second longest streak in Oakland history.

Cliff Pennington leads the A's with 15 RBI...11 of those have come while batting ninth, which is the most in the majors...is tied for 10th in the American League in batting with RISP (.381).

Adam Rosales has back-to-back multiple hit games for the first time in his career and has a five-game hitting streak (9 for 19, .474), which is one short of his career high.

Ryan Sweeney has reached base safely via hit or walk in all 21 of his games this year...it is tied for the longest streak in the majors this year (Werth, PHI) and it is the longest reaching base streak by an Athletic to start the season since Jeremy Giambi had a 25 game streak in 2002...the longest reaching base streak of Sweeney's career is 23 (August 30-September 26, 2009).

THIS DATE IN A'S HISTORY

In 1998 Ben Grieve ties an Oakland record by going a perfect 5 for 5 with four runs scored in the A's 11-4 win at Cleveland...in 2000 Grieve hits his first career grand slam in the 10th inning of a 6-2 A's win at Minnesota.

FOR STARTERS: Is scheduled to make his fifth start of the season...the A's have won in each of his four starting assignments and are 17-12 (.586) when he starts in his career...has tossed at least seven innings in one of his starts, allowed two runs or fewer three times and walked two batters or fewer three times.

NO EARNED RUNS: Has not allow an earned run in each of his last three starts and has a streak of 19.0 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run...that has lowered his season ERA to 1.82, which ranks seventh in the American League...now has a 2.76 ERA (134 er in 436.2 ip) in his career as an Athletic, which is second lowest in Oakland history.

FIRST START: He had a no decision in the A's 6-5 win over Seattle April 7 in Oakland...it was his first Major League appearance since August 18, 2008 as he missed the end of the 2008 season with a hip injury and the entire 2009 season following elbow surgery and clinical depression...allowed a two-run home run to Bradley in the first inning, a Wilson RBI single and Figgins sacrifice fly in the fifth and a Gutierrez RBI single in the sixth...left trailing 5-4 but the A's scored single runs in the seventh and ninth innings for the win.

SECOND START: He combined with Blevins and Bailey on a two-hit shutout in the A's 4-0 win at Seattle on April 12...it was his first win since July 8, 2008, also against Seattle, and it snapped a career high tying three-game losing streak...tossed 7.1 innings and allowed both of the hits while walking two...yielded a leadoff double to Gutierrez in the fourth and a leadoff single to Lopez in the sixth.

THIRD START: He had a no decision in the A's 4-3 win over Baltimore April 17...blanked the Orioles on five hits and a walk over the first five innings and had a 2-0 lead when he allowed two unearned runs in the sixth...a Daric Barton error preceded an Atkins two-out two-run single and Duchscherer was relieved by Gaudin with two outs and the scored tied at 2-2...the Orioles scored a run in the eighth but Oakland scored twice in the ninth for the win.

LAST START: He combined with Ross and Kilby on a five-hit shutout in the A's 10-0 win over Cleveland last Friday in Oakland...tossed 6.0 innings and allowed all five of the hits while walking four...induced four double plays in each of the first four innings and now has six opponents grounded into double plays for the season, which is tied for second most in the American League...retired the side in order just once in the fifth inning but faced the minimum in four of his six innings.

DUCHSCHERER vs. TORONTO: Is 1-0 with a save and a 3.09 ERA (23.1 ip, 17 h, 8 r, 8 er, 5 bb, 17 so, 3 hr) in 11 career appearances, one start...is 1-0 with a 6.52 ERA (7 er in 9.2 ip) in four games, one start, at Rogers Centre and 0-0 with a 0.66 ERA (1 er in 13.2 ip) in seven games in Oakland...the start came in his last appearance against the Blue Jays on August 7, 2008 at Rogers Centre, a no decision in the A's 6-4 loss...had a 3-0 lead when he allowed four runs in the fourth inning on a two-run single by Rolan and a two-run double by McDonald.

THIS SPRING: Was 2-0 with a 5.54 ERA (13.0 ip, 16 h, 11 r, 8 er, 3 bb, 8 so, 1 hr) in three game, all starts...allowed a .308 (16 for 52) opponents batting average...did not allow a run in two of his three starts, but allowed 11 runs on nine hits in 3.0 innings in his other start.

HOME AND AWAY: Is 1-0 in three starts at home this year after going 7-3 record in 11 starts in Oakland in 2008...now has a career record of 21-9 in Oakland and his .700 winning percentage is fifth best in Coliseum history (min. 25 decisions).

2009 RECAP: Missed the entire 2009 season...arrived at Spring Training recovering from 2008 hip surgery, but did not pitch in a Major League spring game because of elbow problems...Dr. Lewis Yocum performed arthroscopic surgery on his right elbow March 31 and he was placed on the 15-day disabled list retroactive to March 27 to start the season...it was his fifth stint on the DL over the last four years...was transferred to the 60-day DL April 29 but his comeback from the elbow surgery was delayed by back issues...began a rehab assignment with Single-A Stockton July 26 at San Jose and retired all six batters he faced (2.0 ip, 2 so)...made his second rehab start at Triple-A Sacramento Aug. 9 against New Orleans and tossed 4.0 scoreless innings (2 h, 1 bb, 3 so)...his final start came Aug. 13 in the Arizona Rookie League against San Francisco and he tossed 5.0 shutout innings (4 h, 3 so)...did not yield a run in 11.0 innings in three rehab starts and allowed a .162 (6 for 37) opponents batting average...issued just one walk and struck out eight...on Aug. 21, it was announced that he would not pitch the rest of the season after being diagnosed with clinical depression.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS: After pitching exclusively out of the bullpen from 2004-07, the two-time American League All-Star (2005, 08) was converted to a starting pitcher in 2008 and went 10-8 with a 2.54 ERA in 22 starts...did not pitch with Oakland in 2009 as his rehab from elbow surgery was halted after being diagnosed with clinical depression...has made 223 career appearances in eight Major League seasons, including seven with the A's...missed the final month and a half of 2008 and the final four months of 2007 with hip problems that led to surgeries both times...saved nine games in 2006 during a stint as the closer while Huston Street was on the disabled list...was named Pacific Coast League Pitcher of the Year in 2003 after leading the league with 14 wins...made his A's debut on Sept. 9 of that year, the same day his first child was born...was originally drafted by Boston in the 8th round in 1996 and was traded to Texas in 2001 where he made his ML debut...was traded to the A's during the spring of 2002.

2008 RECAP: Was named to the American League All-Star team for the second time but two stints on the disabled list limited him to 22 starts...was 10-8 with a 2.54 ERA and .210 opponents batting average...despite his limited action, he led the A's in wins...his 10 victories were the fewest by an A's team leader since Aaron Small had nine in 1997...was converted to a starter in 2008 after appearing in 188 games over the previous four seasons, all in relief...had career bests in nearly every category including wins, starts, strikeouts (95), opponents batting average and innings pitched.

FOR STARTERS: Is scheduled to make his fifth start of the season...the A's are 2-2 (.500) in his starting assignments this year and are 13-15 (.464) in his career...has tossed 6.0 innings or less in three of his four starts this year and 23 of his 28 career starts...has allowed two runs or fewer three times this year and walked two batters or fewer twice.

MONTH BY MONTH: Went 2-1 with a 3.68 ERA in four starts in the month of April...last year, he went 2-3 with a 4.54 ERA in six starts in August and 2-1 with a 4.50 ERA in four starts in September after posting an ERA over 7.00 in each of the first five months of his career...is now 6-6 with a 4.41 ERA (40 er in 81.2 ip) over the last 15 starts of his career after going 3-6 with a 7.52 ERA over his first 19 career appearances, including 13 starts.

WALKS AND STRIKEOUTS: Has struck out 19 batters in 22.0 innings this year, an average of 7.77 per nine innings...however, has also issued 12 walks, or 4.91 per nine innings...now has 162 strikeouts and 93 walks in 154.2 career innings for an average of 9.43 strikeouts and 5.41 walks per nine innings.

FIRST START: He was the winning pitcher in the A's 10-4 win at Los Angeles (AL) on April 9...had a 4-0 lead when he allowed a leadoff home run to Matsui in the bottom of the second...also yielded a RBI single to Izturis in the fifth and was relieved by Ramirez after allowing a leadoff double to River in the seventh inning with a 10-2 lead.

SECOND START: He had a no decision in the A's 4-2 loss at Seattle April 14...allowed six hits and walked four in 4.2 innings but allowed just two runs...the runs came on a two-run single by Bradley in the fifth inning, tying the game at two...was relieved by Gaudin with two outs in the fifth and he allowed two runs in the sixth inning for the loss.

THIRD START: He was the losing pitcher in the A's 7-3 loss to New York April 20...allowed three runs in the first inning on a RBI single by Posada and a two-run single by Swisher but then retired 11 of the next 12 batters before walking Johnson and Teixeira with one out in the fifth...was relieved by Breslow with the A's trailing 3-0 and Breslow allowed a three-run home run to the first batter he faced, Rodriguez.

LAST START: He combined with Kilby and Bailey on a seven-hit shutout in the A's 11-0 win over Cleveland last Sunday in Oakland...tossed a career high tying 7.0 innings and allowed five of the hits while walking two...all five hits and two walks came over the first four innings and he retired each of the last 10 batters that he faced.

GONZALEZ vs. TORONTO: Was the losing pitcher in his only career appearance, a start in the A's 5-1 loss at Rogers Centre on August 6, 2008...allowed a three-run home run to Barajas in the first inning but blanked the Blue Jays on one walk over the next five innings...allowed a leadoff single to Lind in the seventh and was relieved by Casilla who allowed him to score.

THIS SPRING: Was 1-2 with a 2.96 ERA (24.1 ip, 14 h, 8 r, 8 er, 13 bb, 25 so, 2 hr) in six games, five starts...tied for third in the Cactus League with his 25 strikeouts...held the opposition to a .175 (14 for 96) batting average but issued 13 walks in 24.1 innings...pitched in relief of Brett Anderson in his first appearance March 8 but his final five outings were starts...compiled a 2.42 ERA in his starts and allowed two runs or fewer in each outing.

By Joe Stiglich, Oakland Tribune, 2/26/2010

Call Brett Anderson superstitious or ritualistic or a plain old creature of habit. Whatever the label, the A's left-hander won't dispute he's one of the major leagues' quirkiest characters.

Consider the pattern of behavior that marks every Anderson outing. He tosses the ball in his left hand a certain number of times before every pitch. While sitting in the dugout between innings, he drinks water from the same part of the cup with every sip, then makes sure the cup is placed in its proper spot next to him.

When Anderson leaves the clubhouse before a start, the label on the lip balm in his locker has to be facing out. He recently found out that Blistex stopped making the brand he likes, but that's a problem for another day.

"I've been doing this ever since high school," Anderson said. "It's evolved to different things. One thing I think will work, but one thing will go by the wayside. It's been ever-changing. But it's been ever since I started pitching competitively."

Then he smiles, clearly in tune with how amusing it all sounds. "I'm a weird guy."

But baseball is a game marked by habitual behavior. Many players avoid touching the baseline as they come on and off the field. Nomar Garciaparra, a teammate of Anderson's last season, rapidly readjusts his batting gloves after every pitch.

Anderson's teammates respect his idiosyncrasies but also find the humor in them. "Sometimes it takes him a while in between innings to get out there," right-hander Trevor Cahill said. "I think he's got to realize he's making the umpires mad. I'll be sitting next to him on the bench, and I always think they're looking at me. They're trying to get his attention to get out there. But I don't want to interrupt his routine."

Whatever works. Anderson, who turned 22 this month, led major league rookies last season with 150 strikeouts, an Oakland rookie record. He threw a two-hit shutout in his first start at Fenway Park and took a perfect game into the seventh inning against the Los Angeles Angels.

He said he strayed from his game-day routine for one start last season and promptly gave up seven runs in five innings against the Chicago White Sox. Anderson went back to it for his next outing and threw seven solid innings against the New York Yankees.

"Obviously you've gotta go with what's working," he said. The apple didn't fall far from the tree in the Anderson family. Brett's father, Frank, says he had his own habits as a player.

Frank Anderson, the Oklahoma State baseball coach, recalls attending a basketball camp in high school and listening to legendary coach Al McGuire talk about the importance of finding a routine at the free-throw line.

Frank applied the same philosophy to baseball. "I wanted to get in the batter's box the same way every time," he said. "You don't worry about the crowd, you focus on (yourself)."

The elder Anderson stopped short of calling Brett's behavior superstitious.

“In baseball, you have to repeat an action so many times,” Frank Anderson said. “The more times you can do it, the ball is going to come off your hand right, or come off the bat right. We’re creatures of habit. Baseball kind of lends itself to that.”

But even he concedes his son’s behavior might be a little out there.

“He is left-handed, I’ll give you that.”

Oakland Athletics' Andrew Bailey aims to 'stay the course'

By Joe Stiglich, Oakland Tribune, 4/19/2010

Being named the American League's Rookie of the Year was nice for Andrew Bailey. But it hardly did anything to change his personality.

Bailey is the same easygoing person he was last season, and the A's can only hope he's the same pitcher as well. But he has no surprises up his sleeve as he settles in for his second season as the team's closer.

"I think it's just kind of staying the course," Bailey said of his philosophy for 2010.

Who wouldn't aim for the status quo after posting the type of season Bailey did in 2009? He was the only rookie in either league to make the All-Star team and became the seventh Oakland player to be named the AL's top rookie.

No evidence exists that a sophomore jinx might apply for major league closers. Then again, not many relievers from recent seasons can be compared with Bailey, period, because few have assumed full-time closing duties as a rookie.

One exception was Huston Street, who took over as the A's closer in 2005 and was Rookie of the Year. He came back and saved 37 games in 2006, but he also had 11 blown saves.

Jonathan Papelbon notched 35 saves in 2006 for the Boston Red Sox in what officially was his rookie season. But Papelbon got his feet wet with 17 appearances in 2005 (14 in relief), so he's not a direct comparison to Bailey.

"There's always going to be bumps in the road (for young pitchers)," one major league scout said of Bailey's chances to repeat his rookie success. "But stuff is stuff. (Bailey's) got three pitches, and they're all plus-pitches. Last year he looked like one of the top five closers in the game. He took the ball and ran with it, and I don't see why he couldn't do it again."

Bailey posted 26 saves last season with a 1.84 ERA in 68 appearances. He didn't convert from starting to relieving until midway through the 2008 campaign, so his biggest challenge was simply conditioning his arm for frequent use.

Bailey missed two weeks this spring with elbow inflammation, which he has said was probably a byproduct of last season's heavy use.

So perhaps it's a good thing the A's have used Bailey only five times through the first 14 games. He's converted his only save opportunity.

Since joining the bullpen, Bailey said he's begun studying closers such as Papelbon and Mariano Rivera, whose New York Yankees begin a three-game series with the A's tonight. Bailey throws a mid-90's fastball, a slow curve and a cut fastball, and he marveled at Rivera's mastery of the cutter.

"I like Papelbon's aggressiveness, that's kind of the mentality I have," Bailey said. "And I love watching Mariano's kind of like, finesse, just spotting up with that cutter. It's unbelievable. He can put it where he wants it."

Bailey participated in several media engagements this winter. But baseball remained his focus, according to teammate Craig Breslow, who worked out with him regularly.

"Getting his work in and throwing, that kind of remained a priority," Breslow said. "I was impressed with how level-headed and grounded he was."

Braden becomes both student and teacher

A's lefty moonlights as pitching mentor for college team
 By Jane Lee / MLB.com / 02-22-2010

PHOENIX -- When it came time for Ed Sprague to decide on a rotation for his team's season-opening series this weekend, the University of Pacific baseball coach called up a good friend for some advice.

Dallas Braden happened to be on the other end of that phone conversation. Sprague listened carefully to a pal 16 years his junior.

"I asked him who he likes of our guys, and we were pretty much on the same page," Sprague said. "We were pretty close, and I ended up going with the guys he chose."

Turns out the kid knows his stuff, as the Tigers enjoyed a 2-1 weekend against the University of San Francisco in their first regular-season games since being under the tutorage of Braden, who still makes his home in the university's location of Stockton, Calif.

Both Braden and Sprague went to high school in Stockton. Both have played for the A's -- Sprague in 1998 during a 11-year professional career. Yet neither knew of the other until 2006 when Braden asked Sprague if he could practice on the university's fields during the offseason.

In four short years, the 26-year-old A's left-hander has since transformed from an average Minor League pitcher bouncing back and forth from the bullpen to the rotation into a bona fide big league starter. Oh, and don't forget the college interim pitching coach stint on his resume, which Sprague proudly endorses.

"It seems like just yesterday he started asking if he could come out and play catch at our field," the Tigers coach said. "Ever since, he's come out every offseason to work out. This year he came out more, and our guys started watching him play catch and asking him questions."

"He ended up staying three or four hours and would watch them in the bullpen. It was great."

For Braden, making friends comes as easily as throwing strikes thanks to a contagiously inviting and witty personality, so before long, the A's pitcher was welcoming the college players into his home.

"I took some guys under my wing and had them come over to the house," he said. "They were asking me how to prepare, and I have DVDs in my office of all the games I've thrown, so I showed them and talked about approach. It was fun because I feel like the more you talk about that stuff the more you can actually learn."

Braden can only hope he can act out his own lessons this year as he returns from a season in which he was shut down after only 22 starts. His bizarre injuries coincidentally match his quirky personality -- for no rhyme or reason, other than maybe to allow the baseball gods to hear Braden interactively tell tales of his wacky body.

Take his deviated septum, for instance. Braden underwent a nasal endoscopy in December because of the resulting breathing and sleeping problems -- an operation that led to what he described as a "water-fall" of blood over his grandma's sink when he attempted to remove a cotton ball just days later.

"I was steadily flowing blood out of my face for the first few days," he said in a humorous nonchalant manner. "I can now breathe -- figuratively and literally."

On top of that, Braden still feels lingering effects from the nerve irritation that developed last year in his foot and has no feeling in two of his toes. The foot issues began midseason when his ankle suffered an allergic reaction to a neoprene brace he'd been wearing, which subsequently led to inflammation in the area where his foot meets his ankle.

"I don't know if it affects me," Braden said of the numb toes. "Sometimes I'll get a little too far on the back side of my foot and I'm not really sure how far I'm back there just because sensory isn't there."

There's no motor sensory damage, which means my muscles are firing and I can feel that, which is awesome. But just to touch it, there's not much going on there.

"They said it could take six months, six years, or it could never come back. We just don't know."

Braden does know, though, that he's "right where I need to be" on the Spring Training schedule.

"I've thrown some bullpens and have no limitations really," said the southpaw, who is scheduled to throw a bullpen session Monday. "I'm running and doing everything that's required of a guy in camp."

"I was ready for this Aug. 5, which was about two days after I realized I wasn't going to pitch again. I even called [pitching coach] Curt Young and told him after the first day I threw a baseball I almost cried because I was just so excited that I could actually throw a baseball and I was ready to go. I started playing catch in late November or early December because I wanted that feeling. I wanted to know I was still a baseball player."

No matter where Braden's health leads him this year or the next, Sprague believes the A's pitcher will be a mainstay in the game thanks to a maturity the coach has watched progress during Braden's time in Stockton.

"I think he's definitely got a gift for coaching," Sprague said. "He did a very good job of relaying stuff on the coaching level. I definitely think he'll have a long career in baseball, especially after he's done playing."

For now, though, Braden hopes to stay busy on the mound in an effort to turn some of the Giants fans present on Pacific's baseball team into followers of the green and gold.

"I don't know if we've converted all of them," said Sprague, "but we've certainly turned them all into Dallas Braden fans."

Thinking Man's Game

Courtesy of New England Baseball Journal 3/4/2010

Story by Douglas Flynn

The Wall Street Journal once labeled him “the smartest man in baseball, if not the entire world,” and the presence of a degree in molecular biophysics and biochemistry from Yale University would appear to support the claim.

Craig Breslow chuckles at the moniker that has stuck with him through eight seasons of professional baseball. But the Trumbull, Conn., native certainly was smart enough to realize his future on the diamond was in serious question when the Milwaukee Brewers, who had picked him in the 26th round of the 2002 draft, unceremoniously released him two years later during the 2004 season.

“When you’re released as a 23-year-old after being a 26th-round draft pick, you’d have to be pretty foolish if you didn’t have some serious doubts [about making it],” Breslow said. “I was really close to giving up on baseball. I felt like toiling in the minors for years when I had this great educational background wouldn’t have made much sense.”

For once, Breslow went with his heart instead of his brain. Rather than returning to school to pursue the medical degree that always has been his goal, Breslow gave baseball one more shot. He hooked on with the New Jersey Jackals in the independent Northeast League for the rest of 2004, then was signed by San Diego out of a tryout camp the following year.

His major league debut came with the Padres on July 23, 2005, and while there’s been some more bumps along the way as he was non-tendered by San Diego and waived by three other teams, he enters the 2010 season having established himself as one of the top left-handed relievers in the majors.

“Going into this year, hopefully I have established a role for myself now,” Breslow, now 29, said. “I’ll never be complacent, but I think I’ve proven myself a bit now.”

Breslow had some success in his various stops. He had a 3.75 ERA and 12 strikeouts in 12 innings with the Red Sox in 2006 and a 1.91 ERA in 47 innings split between Cleveland and Minnesota in 2008. But it wasn’t until he was claimed off waivers by Oakland on May 20, 2009, that everything really came together for him.

Breslow finished the year second in the American League in appearances with 77, including 60 with the A’s. He went 7-5 in Oakland with a 2.60 ERA and 44 K’s against just 18 walks in 55¹/₈ innings. Long considered a lefty specialist, Breslow finally was given a chance to get hitters from both sides of the plate out, and actually had more success against righties (.191 opponents’ average) than lefties (.204) last year.

“I like to think I can do more than just get lefties out,” Breslow said. “I think if you look at my splits I’ve had pretty similar numbers against righties as I have against lefties.”

The A’s certainly are glad Breslow put off med school and stuck with baseball. So are a lot of people away from the diamond.

As much as he has contributed on the field, Breslow has proven even more valuable off it with his tireless charity work for pediatric cancer research and treatment. Breslow has a very personal reason for such efforts, as his older sister Lesley was diagnosed with pediatric thyroid cancer when she was 13 and Breslow was 11. Lesley Breslow has been in remission for over 15 years, but that harrowing experience was enough to make Breslow want to do everything in his power to prevent any other families from going through the same ordeal.

“That had a dramatic impact on my life,” Breslow said. “A couple of years ago, I was playing for the Red Sox at the time, and I felt it was as good a time as ever to do something.”

For many players, “doing something” would mean donating some money and maybe making a few appearances to raise more funds. That wasn’t enough for Breslow, who instead chose to launch his own organization, The Strike 3 Foundation (www.strike3foundation.org).

“The control freak I am, I knew I had to do my own thing and not just be a spokesman for an existing charity and show up at a few events,” Breslow said. “I like the autonomy of being able to allocate the revenue where I see fit. ... I think there’s some value in being more than just some athlete or celebrity lending their name to some cause.”

Breslow’s work, which includes an annual gala each November (this past year’s featured Nomar Garciaparra as a speaker and a performance by reggae star Shaggy, while NHL star and fellow Trumbull native Chris Drury of the New York Rangers has helped out at other events), already has raised $215,000 and distributed more than $160,000 in its first 2½ years despite the rough economic times.

“If you told me two years ago that the economy was going to be in its biggest downturn in 80 years, I probably would have said this isn’t a good time to be asking for charity dollars,” said Breslow, who spent nights during a past spring training filling out paperwork to register the foundation as a charity with the IRS.

While many charities raise money for support services for cancer patients and their families, Breslow’s focus strictly is on research and treatment.

“I figure if you eliminate the disease, you eliminate the need for counseling for family members and all of those type of support services,” Breslow explained. “If you have no cancer, then you don’t have to find a way to ever tell a kid that he has cancer. That’s my goal.”

Breslow may have an even more direct impact on cancer treatment in the future, as he hasn’t ruled out going back to med school after baseball. He just hopes that won’t be a decision he has to make for quite some time.

“It’s definitely something I think about,” Breslow said. “I’m enjoying what I’m doing now. I’d love to be doing this for another 12 years, so I don’t know where that would leave me, but I definitely think about it.”

In the meantime, he’ll have to satisfy his intellectual itch in other ways — such as settling bets for old teammates. One such occasion came in 2007, when he was called upon to solve a pressing issue in the Red Sox clubhouse. Somehow, Josh Beckett and Doug Mirabelli got caught up in a debate over how many times a ball thrown at 95 mph would make a full revolution between the mound and the plate. Naturally, the only person they knew who could solve the problem was Breslow.

“I was in Pawtucket and Josh left me an urgent message that I had to help him out,” Breslow recalled. “I think it ended up being about 12.4 [rotations]. I’m not sure who won the bet, but I did my part.”

Maybe solving that dilemma is why Breslow received a World Series ring in 2007 despite not facing a single batter with the big club. He was called up on Sept. 1 but sent back to Pawtucket the next day without having pitched in Boston.

He’s done a lot more in Oakland, but his reputation as an Ivy League science wiz still precedes him.

“Breslow knows everything,” A’s starter Dallas Braden told MLB.com last year. “I seriously want to be Craig Breslow when I grow up. He knows things most baseball players wouldn’t even try to think about. ... I’m not saying we’re all a bunch of rockheads, but if we were, he’d know how to build some kind of laser to break up the rocks and turn them into something way cooler.”

Thus, Breslow’s claim as baseball’s smartest man lives on, much to his amusement.

“I take my share of ribbing for it, players give me a hard time,” Breslow said. “But when I think about the nicknames that are out there, being called the world’s smartest man, I’ll gladly take that.

“I’m regarded as an expert no matter what the subject is,” Breslow added. “Even if I don’t know anything about it, whatever I say is treated like gospel, which is pretty amusing to me.”

2010 CLIPSChavez doesn't just swing bats, he makes them

Susan Slusser, Chronicle Staff Writer. 3/14/2010

Phoenix - -- Eric Chavez always takes a keen interest in bats. The A's infielder likes to design his own, choosing the wood, the handle, providing all the specifics. He enjoys watching the manufacturing process, too.

"I love it," he said. "It's the coolest thing."

Now, Chavez can head to his own bat company to see his bats produced. He is a primary investor in a venture called Diego Bats, after Chavez's oldest son, and it's the real deal: The company is churning out major-league certified bats used by Oakland's Mark Ellis and Kurt Suzuki, among others.

"It's good, because it's Eric's company, so I can always tell him what's going on - and I know since he's here, it's always going to be the best stuff," Suzuki said. "He sent me some this offseason, I tried them and I like them - the quality I'm looking for is there."

Chavez is working with a friend, Andy Goulder, who is managing the enterprise. Goulder is also involved with Diablo Bats, which is not major-league certified but produces lumber used in wood-bat leagues and by many junior college programs.

Jermaine Dye and Eric Munson - friends and former teammates of Chavez's - are also investors. They helped Diego Bats gain certification, an expensive process that includes $10,000 in fees and $10 million worth of liability insurance.

"It's not something I'm doing to make money," said Chavez, who is in the final year of a six-year, $66 million contract. "It's not a real moneymaker. But it's fun to have my son's name on a bat, and we'll

Chavez has found that his new sidelight comes with challenges, some of them less than appealing. Just three days after the decision to call the company Diego Bats, someone purchased the domain name diegobats.com and has tried to get Chavez to pony up for the site.

Chavez, whose company can be found at diegobats.us, said he had no interest in buying the name, and the domain owner constructed what appears to be (but is not) a “Diego Bats” company site. The site features some scantily clad women and some comments that are in questionable taste.

“It’s pretty bad,” Chavez said. “But my lawyers have looked at it and said there’s nothing we can do about it.”

“I wish I knew who it was,” Goulder said. “It’s just not fair to Eric.”

Otherwise, the project is a blast, and the company is looking to expand its client base; it might have one in Arizona pitcher Dan Haren, another former A’s player, who said Friday in Tucson that he’s planning to order some bats from Chavez.

Ellis is providing some good free advertising. He’s 6-for-13 this spring, and he’s pounding out those hits with Diego Bats.

“That’s what I’m swinging,” he said with a grin. “They’re doing a good job.”

Chavez would take a close interest in bat trends, anyway, but now that it’s his business, he’s paying even more attention. When there were renewed calls to look at banning or restricting the use of maple bats in the major leagues again this week, Chavez decided he’d move back toward using ash bats - and he suggested that Diego Bats follow suit. (They presently craft yellow birch, maple and ash bats.)

“I told Andy to make sure there is a good amount of ash, because I don’t know what baseball is going to do,” Chavez said. “Maple bats are breaking like crazy.”

Chavez gets a kick out of designing his own bats “to a T,” he said, but the personal connection is what’s most important to him. His bat model is DDC - Diego, Dolce, Cruz, the names of his three children.

What does Diego, 4, think of having his name affixed to a bat company?

“He doesn’t really know,” Chavez said with a laugh. “He’s so spoiled, he doesn’t know the difference. But maybe one day he can look back and say, ‘That’s pretty cool.’”

SECOND BASEMAN

Height/Weight: 5-10 / 185 Bats/Throws: Right / Right
Birthdate: June 6, 1977 Opening Day Age: 32
Birthplace/Resides: Rapid City, South Dakota / Scottsdale, Arizona
Major League Service: 7 years, 136 days

Obtained: Acquired from Kansas City with Johnny Damon and cash as part of a three-team, seven-player deal, January 8, 2001. The A's traded Ben Grieve and cash to Tampa Bay and A.J. Hinch, Angel Berroa and cash to Kansas City. Tampa Bay traded Roberto Hernandez to Kansas City and Cory Lidle to Oakland.

Contract Status: Second year of a two-year contract through 2010 with a club option for 2011.

2010 HIGHLIGHTS

- Made his sixth consecutive Opening Day start at second base April 5 against Seattle, his seventh in the last eight years...the seven starts are an Oakland record for a second baseman, topping the previous best of six by Dick Green...in Athletic history, only Dick Green (10) and Max Bishop (9) have more.
- Singled in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning April 6 against Seattle, his sixth career walk-off hit (three singles, three home runs).
- Made his first career start at designated hitter, April 11 at Los Angeles.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

Completed his seventh season with the A's in 2009 and holds the Oakland record for games played (846) as a second baseman...is the Athletics franchise leader for home runs as a second baseman (78)...has led Major League second basemen in fielding twice in the last four years and has a .989 career fielding percentage, which is third best in ML history among second basemen with 750 or more games...has yet to win a Gold Glove...has 21 career triples, which is tied for ninth in Oakland history...hit the fifth walk-off grand slam in Oakland history June 8, 2008 against Los Angeles...set an Athletics franchise record for second basemen with a 102-game errorless streak from May 14 to Sept. 10, 2007...set what was then a Major League record for fielding percentage by a second baseman in 2006 with a mark of .997...hit a career high .316 in 2005 after missing the entire 2004 season with a torn labrum in his right shoulder...was named to the Topps Major League Rookie All-Star Team as the second baseman in 2002...was acquired by the A's from Kansas City prior to the 2001 season in the trade that also netted the A's Johnny Damon and Cory Lidle.

2009 HIGHLIGHTS

Batted .263 with 10 home runs and 61 RBI in 105 games in 2009...missed 55 games while on the disabled list from April 29 to June 27 with a strained left calf...the 105 games were his fewest since appearing in 98 games during his rookie season of 2002, but his 61 RBI were the second best total of his career...appeared in 105 games at second base and made five errors for a .990 fielding percentage...fell three games short of qualifying for the league leaders in fielding but he had the fourth best fielding percentage among American League second basemen with 100 or more games...now has a .98938 career fielding percentage, which is third best in Major League history among second basemen with 750 or more games played...batted .337 with runners in scoring position...hit .219 over his first 43 games through July 27, .344 over a 42-game stretch from July 28 to Sept. 12 and .182 over his final 20 games.

Ellis remains constant amid A's changes

Veteran second baseman embracing role as club leader

By Jane Lee / MLB.com / 03-16-2010

PHOENIX -- Mark Ellis still sports the same boyish look he brought with him to the A's clubhouse upon his arrival in 2002.

It was that same year during which the 25-year-old kid, traded along with Johnny Damon from Kansas City a year before, made his Major League debut. It was also that same year former Oakland outfielder David Justice lent him a warning.

"My first week in the big leagues, he told me, 'One day you're going to look up and 12 years will have gone by,'" Ellis recalled. "It hasn't been 12, but it's been close, and it's all gone by so fast."

Also gone are plenty of teammates who have walked through Oakland's revolving door. Yet Ellis, aside from the often-injured Eric Chavez, has remained the team's lone steady presence through it all. An average career batting mark, a top-notch glove and decent power have made for quite the bargain for the A's, who are paying Ellis $5.5 million -- the most he's ever made -- this season.

He's been on first-place teams, last-place teams and every team in between. He's racked up the most games played by an Oakland second baseman (846) and has led the American League in fielding more than once.

However, you won't see Ellis' name on a Gold Glove Award. Perhaps it is East Coast bias and batting average theories that have left the A's second baseman in the dust every season. Anyone in the A's clubhouse will say he is one of the most underrated defensive players in the game, but they'll also say he's one of the most respected.

That, said A's bench coach Tye Waller, comes from Ellis' ability to be a student, teacher, teammate and friend all at once.

"Back when I came up," said Waller, "you were always being tutored by the leaders on the club. Now guys come and go every one or two years, but because Mark has been here so long and has had the success he's had with the A's, the others can look up to him as a guy who knows what it takes to be successful here. He has the respect of everyone on this club."

Said reverence comes with time. And Ellis knows he's put in that time. In fact, the A's veteran currently represents the team's oldest player at the ripe age of 32.

"When you think about it," said a smiling Chavez," that doesn't just make him the oldest player here, but that makes him the oldest player in the organization.

"I don't want that title. I'm glad he has it."

Ellis wears the title well, though. And he can't help but laugh when thinking of how many times Chavez -- who is just six months younger -- has reminded him of it.

Only Chavez, who made his debut for the A's in 1998, has been with the team longer than Ellis. But the six-time Gold Glove third baseman has played in only 121 games during the past three seasons while Ellis has appeared in 372.

His presence at second base, which was missing during the 2004 season due to a dislocated right shoulder, has now become one of the only sure things in Oakland, where players are constantly on the move. On Monday, he noticed former A's shortstop Orlando Cabrera's name in the Reds lineup and on Wednesday, he'll face former teammate Barry Zito before catching up with ex-A's pitcher Dan Haren when the Diamondbacks come to town Thursday.

Call it the norm, he says.

"It's nice to be able to still see all these guys," Ellis said, "but it's a little strange. There's times when it's really tough, because you've been with these guys and they're not only teammates but friends. At the same time, you get to meet new people and build new relationships pretty easily here.

"I think in a perfect world everyone would have their nine guys out there who they'd like to play with every year, but that's just how baseball is. It's how it is throughout the league and probably a little more here, but it's the way it goes."

Ellis is in the final year of a two-year contract but has a club option for 2011. And even though everyone around him in Oakland is seemingly getting younger, he wouldn't mind getting older while playing alongside them. He became a free agent following the 2008 season but never really bothered looking elsewhere.

"I love it here," Ellis said. "I obviously went through the same deal with my contract a couple years ago and chose to stay here. We're very comfortable here. It's a great place, and the team is moving in the right direction. That's ideal for me."

An extension is also ideal for his family. Young kids Briggs and Adelaide have only ever known the Bay Area, and Ellis and his wife, Sarah, relish the opportunity to visit the same doctors and grocery stores while also staying connected to the same neighbors and friends.

"I try not to think about it too much," Ellis said. "But if that time to leave here ever comes, whether through retirement or going to a different team, that's going to be tough."

The boyish look may gradually disappear in the coming years, but Ellis insists that no matter his age or location, his constant love and dedication for the game will always join him for the ride.

"I just want to stay on the field and play as many games as I can and win as many games as I can," he said. "Nothing in this game is guaranteed."

Nothing, says Waller, except Ellis' daily work ethic.

"Mark, from Day 1, has brought a sense of professionalism," he said. "The way he goes about his work, how he interacts with the team, it's a special thing. He pours so much into his teammates, and he's always there with that leadership that can bring these guys to another level."

Gross' goal: Produce fully in limited time

Susan Slusser, Chronicle Staff Writer, 3/23/2010

Sometimes, Gabe Gross wonders how he might have fared if he'd stuck with football. The onetime Auburn quarterback gave up that sport in his sophomore season to concentrate on baseball, and he doesn't second-guess the decision - how could he? He has a career in major-league baseball. He does think, however, about what type of quarterback he might have been with another year or two of experience.

"I came in as a true freshman and played two thirds of that season, and I did a lot of the stupid things true freshmen do, made a lot of mistakes - I didn't have a clue what I was doing," said Gross, who went from a simple high-school offense to a complex Terry Bowden offense. "Then I hung football up my sophomore year; I wasn't starting and I had to make a decision about which sport to focus on.

"I don't regret it at all, but I'd love to see where I would have been as a junior or senior if I'd stayed and learned some things. I do think about that once in a while."

On the baseball field, Gross might have similar questions: What type of player might he be with regular playing time?

The A's new outfielder hasn't been an everyday player, really. Sure, now and then he gets a stretch of extended time when a starting outfielder goes down, but really, Gross, 30, has been a bench player in the big leagues.

That's fairly unusual, because reserves tend to be older players on the down side of their careers; young players often don't handle part-time play well. Yet, since he came to the majors at the age of 24, Gross has not had more than 345 at-bats in a season; in fact, it's usually more like 200 at-bats.

"When you have to do something, you find a way; it's sink or swim in that role," said Gross, who cited Tampa Bay coach George Hendrick as a major help in learning to succeed as a part-timer.

"I've had some success coming off the bench, but I always feel like I could have done a lot better. I haven't been satisfied at all with the way I've produced in the at-bats I've had. Some of that is me, and some of that is never getting regular at-bats."

Throughout his career, Gross has had a big leg kick as part of his swing. Any exaggerated motions or extra moving parts are hard to keep fine-tuned without regular at-bats, and Gross was finding it ever more difficult to be consistent with his timing device sometimes on, sometimes off.

"It was kind of self-defeating," he said. "I fought it for several years, I tried to keep with it, because when things went well with the leg kick, they went really well. But when they went bad, they went really, really bad. It hit me straight in the face that I needed to change. Being really stubborn, it took me four years to do it."

So this offseason, Gross began to try to minimize the kick. Now, it's more like a small step instead of a big kick, and his swing is simpler.

"No matter what you do to load (the swing), if you're not getting consistent at-bats, it's hard to maintain," said A's hitting coach Jim Skalen, who also worked with Gross in Milwaukee. "Smaller movements are easier to maintain, and he's adding some rhythm to his stride."

It appears to be working. Gross is 13-for-36 (.361), and he has a team-high 11 RBIs while playing all over the outfield.

A knack for driving in runs should assure Gross of plenty of at-bats, but he'd still like to be in the lineup on a regular basis, even if he realizes that the starting outfield of Coco Crisp, Rajai Davis and Ryan Sweeney might make that difficult.

"I hold out hope that in some way, shape or form, I'll get everyday play sometime," Gross said. "But as long as this is my role, I'll embrace it."

Persistence has paid off for Kouzmanoff

By Joe Stiglich/Bay Area News Group. 3/7/10

PHOENIX — To understand Kevin Kouzmanoff’s blue-collar approach to baseball, you must understand the unlikely path he blazed to the major leagues.

The A’s new third baseman hardly was a can’t-miss prospect coming out of Evergreen (Colo.) High School. He held no aspirations of playing after high school until a summer league coach offered a late invitation to join his team.

Then he bounced around three colleges before the Cleveland Indians drafted him in the sixth round in 2003.

“He was never the best player on his team,” Kouzmanoff’s father, Marc, said. “He was never that stud that anyone looked at and said he’s a future major league baseball player. But he was persistent.”

Now that Kouzmanoff, 28, has established himself in the big leagues, there’s hardly anything “big league” about him. He returns to Evergreen every winter to work with his hitting guru, a friend who’s a carpenter by trade and has no formal background in coaching. And, as his name swirled in trade rumors this winter, Kouzmanoff escaped by working in an auto shop surrounded by mechanics who had no idea he was a ballplayer until he told them.

Kouzmanoff has brought that workmanlike manner to the A’s since being obtained in a Jan. 16 trade from the San Diego Padres. Kouzmanoff has called on infield coach Mike Gallego frequently because he loves taking extra grounders.

“If it takes staying late or coming in early, I’m all about it because I have to take enough reps to feel like I’m prepared to play the game,” Kouzmanoff said.

That dedication was apparent at an early age, Marc Kouzmanoff said. But Kevin didn’t generate much buzz as a high school player. While playing on the summer league team after graduation, he caught the attention of the coaching staff at Cochise College, a junior college located in Douglas, Ariz.

He played two years at Cochise and earned a scholarship to Arkansas-Little Rock. Realizing that scouts weren’t flocking to games there, Kouzmanoff was granted a release from his scholarship and transferred to Nevada. There, he blossomed into the Western Athletic Conference Player of the Year in 2003.

But even while he starred at Nevada, major league scouts were skeptical.

“There are certain players you see right away that excite you with their tools package,” said Indians scout Don Lyle, who signed Kouzmanoff. “Guys like Kouzmanoff are subtle and have to come to you eventually. The more you watch him, the more you see things that you like.”

Kouzmanoff’s arrival in the major leagues with Cleveland in 2006 wasn’t subtle. He hit a grand slam off Texas’ Edinson Volquez on the first pitch of his first at-bat — the first player ever to do so.

“Our whole family was on SportsCenter for a week,” Marc Kouzmanoff said.

Kouzmanoff was traded to San Diego before the 2007 season and averaged 20 homers and 82 RBI over the past three seasons.

No one knows Kouzmanoff’s swing better than Troy Slinkard, his unofficial hitting coach since Kouzmanoff was 19. Slinkard is a carpenter whose hobby is studying baseball swings. Marc Kouzmanoff estimates Slinkard owns video footage of 500-600 major leaguers and has had Kouzmanoff watch film of himself to compare it to some of the game’s top hitters.

“We just started hitting baseballs in his driveway,” Kouzmanoff said. “It’s not rocket science. He’s just a coach. We’re on the same page and same level. I understand him and he understands me.”

Kouzmanoff is expected to provide middle-of-the-order pop for a team that hit the fewest homers (135) in the American League in 2009.

“I was surprised to come over to Oakland just because I didn’t hear that they were one of the teams interested,” Kouzmanoff said. “They’re a West Coast team, a good young team. So I was excited to come here.”

2010 CLIPSPatterson trying to latch on with A's

Utility man, who is out of options, looking to prove his worth

By Jane Lee / MLB.com / 3-24-2010

PHOENIX -- Eric Patterson likes to separate himself from all things baseball once the offseason begins.

His brother, not so much.

So when the A's were bringing in utility guys left and right over the winter, including the likes of Adam Rosales and Gabe Gross, Patterson stayed away from the news.

His brother, not so much.

"My brother probably gives me more updates than I need," Patterson said, "but I try during the offseason to step away from the game a little bit. I'll check what's up every now and then, but I don't really look into it."

His elder sibling, 30-year-old Corey, just happens to be upholding big brother duties. He also happens to be a Major League player himself, having spent 10 years and counting with six different teams. But even Corey can't let the younger Patterson get too worked up about signings that could affect his brother's playing time.

In fact, Eric Patterson felt more comfortable coming into camp this year than in seasons past, even though he's well aware he's out of options and not guaranteed a roster spot come Opening Day.

"Last year, I got a lot of playing time, and for me, it's all I really wanted -- just an opportunity to get out there every day and be able to relax and show what I can bring to the team," Patterson said. "Coming into Spring Training, having finished the year on a good note, it's been easy for me to relax. I don't have to prove anything anymore. I just need to get out and continue to get work in everywhere."

"In years past, I haven't really felt good as far as coming in here and feeling comfortable. I never felt great at the plate and every at-bat I felt different, whether it was a different stance or something. So I just really think the way I finished last year has helped the comfort level and allowed me to relax."

Since coming over in the 2008 trade that sent Rich Harden to the Cubs, the 26-year-old Patterson has seen five stints in Oakland, the most recent being his most productive. After posting a .167 average in 12 games over his first two stints last year, he boasted a .344 mark with 14 walks and five stolen bases in his final one -- which began Aug. 28 and took him to the end of the season.

Patterson knows things have changed since then, though. The A's have a solid backup infielder in Rosales, along with several fourth-outfield choices, making his role very much unknown at the moment.

"I've always been a firm believer that if you can play at this level, you're going to play," he said. "I'd love to be here with this club, but if I don't fit in with what they're trying to do here, I certainly understand that."

In 16 games this spring, Patterson has compiled a respectable .289 average with 13 hits and seven RBIs while being his aggressive defensive self in stints at second base, center field and left field. He's also reached base safely in each of his past six games, giving the A's much to think about in the next

“The biggest thing for me is getting the opportunity to play and show guys I can have good [at-bats] here and have an impact on this baseball team while showing some versatility,” Patterson said. “That way, if it doesn’t work here, I can latch on somewhere else.”

Patterson joins Jake Fox as the two A’s players out of options, yet he’s found an upside to what many consider an unfortunate situation.

“The good thing about the whole out of options thing is that you kind of understand where you lie when all is said and done, how your team needs you, how other teams need you,” Patterson said. “But all I can do right now is get my work in because whatever happens, happens.”

Patterson is one of seven players competing for what appears to be three bench spots, one of which is presumably a lock for Eric Chavez if he stays healthy. The final two, though, are up for grabs between Patterson, Fox, Gross, Rosales and Steve Tolleson.

According to assistant general manager David Forst, the club will definitely “take into account” Patterson and Fox’s situations.

“You have to,” Forst said. “We’ve got 10 more days, so a decision probably won’t be made until we absolutely have to.”

Until then, Patterson plans on putting in as much work on the field as he’s allowed, no matter the position. If you had asked the utility guy two years ago if he preferred the outfield or infield, he would have chosen the latter within seconds. Now, he says “it doesn’t matter.”

“As long as I’m on the field, I’m happy,” Patterson said. “I need to get work in at all places, so whatever gets me in the lineup every day is fine with me.”

Hustle's the name of Rosales' game

John Shea, Chronicle Staff Writer, 4/27/2010

Pete Rose-ales.

That's who he is. Hustling everywhere. He sprints around the bases on home runs. Sprints to first base on walks. When a reporter asked for an interview, he actually sprinted through the clubhouse to get prepared.

Adam Rosales doesn't waste any of his time in the big leagues. He relishes every minute of it.

"It's a kid's game, man," said Rosales, smiling.

The A's have an appreciative utility infielder on their hands. A valuable one, too. Especially with second baseman Mark Ellis on the disabled list and first baseman Daric Barton in limbo with a small finger fracture.

Rosales was acquired in a Feb. 1 trade with the Reds. He played 105 games in 2008 and 2009 with Cincinnati and impressed a fan base that knows something about hustle, considering it's the baseball home of hustlin' icon Pete Rose.

With 66 hits to his name, Rosales needs just 4,190 more to be mentioned in the same breath as the hits king, but that doesn't mean he can't show some of that Rose-like giddyup.

While with the Reds, Rosales got a chance to meet Rose before a game at Great American Ball Park.

"He said he likes the way I play the game," Rosales said.

Fast. The only gear he has.

When Rosales homered off Joe Saunders in Anaheim on April 11, he sprinted out of the box and didn't slow down until he crossed the plate. No home run trot for this guy. He drew a fourth-inning walk on Sunday and shot like a cannon to first base.

His energetic approach isn't intended to show up the opposition or cozy up to management. It's just his style. Has been since he was a kid, he said, since he played Little League on the fields around Park Ridge, Ill., just outside Chicago.

"First time I hit a home run, I jogged around the bases and felt I slowed the game down," Rosales said. "After that, I said I'm going to run hard. I've been doing it since I was 12 years old. I promised myself if I ever had the opportunity to play at a high level, I'd keep doing it. I'm keeping a promise to my 12-year-old self. Fans seem to appreciate it."

Is it tiring?

"That's why we sleep, man," he said.

Manager Bob Geren likes Rosales' versatility as much as his hustle. Rosales started 13 of the past 14 games, including 12 at second base. He started at third on Saturday when Kevin Kouzmanoff rested and switched to first late in Sunday's game after Barton got hurt - Barton will be re-evaluated before tonight's game against the Rays in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"Adam's doing everything. He plays all the positions and hustles his butt off," Geren said. "I like that. There's nothing you can't like about the guy."

Rosales is hitting .250 with eight RBIs. He hit .212 with the Reds and was a .299 hitter over two seasons at Triple-A Louisville.

As a big-leaguer, Rosales has as much fun as he did playing as a kid.

Before Sunday's game at the Coliseum, A's PR people asked him to greet thousands of Little Leaguers as they paraded around the field. Rosales did it with a smile for 45 minutes, offering handshakes, high-fives and lots of low-fives.

"I still consider myself a Little Leaguer," said Rosales, who wears his green socks to his knees. "If I'm not enjoying myself, I shouldn't be here. You've got to keep it fun because it is a grind. It's 162-plus games. You've got to keep a smile on your face and enjoy every moment you're out there."

Infielder Adam Rosales is making serious run for roster spot with A's

By Joe Stiglich, Oakland Tribune, 3/23/2010

Adam Rosales didn't wear a Cincinnati Reds uniform very long, but his all-out style of play earned him a pretty nice comparison.

The infielder became known in Cincinnati as "Pete Rosales," a reference to Pete Rose, a rather famous ex-Red who also gained attention for his hustle.

Rosales has impressed the A's with more than his attitude since coming over in a Feb. 1 trade. He's played well enough this spring to put heat on Cliff Pennington in the battle for the starting shortstop job.

Despite the competition, Rosales goes about his business like a man who understands he's getting paid to play a kid's game.

"I've just kind of always listened to what the coaches said," Rosales, 26, said. "One thing that was always constant was work hard, play hard, be smart. You should always enjoy the game."

The A's knew they were getting a high-energy player when they acquired Rosales for infielder Aaron Miles and a player to be named (the A's also got outfielder Willy Taveras in the deal but released him immediately).

They like the results they've seen, as well.

Rosales has hit .333 in 14 Cactus League games, seeing action at second base and third base as well as shortstop.

He hit just .213 in 87 games last season with Cincinnati, but his versatility attracted the A's. He played all four infield spots last season.

But the first thing usually mentioned about Rosales is his hustle, not surprising for a player who hardly took the express route to the major leagues.

Cincinnati drafted him in the 12th round out of Western Michigan in 2005, and he made his big league debut in 2008 at age 25.

Rosales drew the spotlight last season by sprinting around the bases after each of his four homers. It wasn't a ploy for attention — Rosales said he's done the same thing since he was 12.

"The first time I hit one out of the park, I jogged around the bases and it felt really awkward," he said. "It felt like it took too much time."

Reds right-hander Jared Burton said he recalls his former teammate taking a bat and hitting baseballs into the corners of the outfield, then running to retrieve them. That's one way Rosales got his conditioning in.

"He's one of those guys, if he plays the game for 15 years, he'll still be like a kid," Burton said. "He appreciates every chance he gets out there."

Sometimes Rosales' up-tempo style gets the best of him.

"The biggest thing with Adam is he gets out of control at times," A's second baseman Mark Ellis said. "But he's gotten so much better since camp started. He plays very hard. He doesn't say a whole lot. He's just going about his business."

He could start the season in the minor leagues if he doesn't beat out Pennington at shortstop. Jake Fox and Eric Patterson are also fighting to make the team as utility men, and both are out of options.

"Once you start worrying about (making the team), you start pressing," Rosales said. "You've just got to keep the fun in it or else you're going to get yourself in trouble."

A's welcome Ben Sheets' rambunctious nature

By Joe Stiglich, Oakland Tribune, 4/27/2010

Ben Sheets often is heard before he's seen in the A's clubhouse. On a team where the veterans usually speak softly and lead by example, Sheets deviates from that pattern with his rambunctious personality.

He'll greet teammates by belting out one of his favorite lines — "Good morning, champions!" — as he arrives for a game.

He recently had two mini basketball hoops installed in the home clubhouse at the Oakland Coliseum. Now nerf basketballs are flying through the air before and after batting practice.

"You never know when the Golden State Warriors coaching staff is going to walk through," Sheets said. "Somebody might have a great jumper."

Sheets was signed to a one-year, $10 million contract in January because the A's wanted a proven veteran to anchor their rotation. After missing all of last season with an elbow injury, the right-hander is 1-1 with a 2.74 ERA and appears to be rounding into form. He'll make his fifth start today against the Tampa Bay Rays as the A's begin a six-game road trip.

But teammates say they also benefit from his lighthearted spirit.

Players such as designated hitter Eric Chavez and second baseman Mark Ellis, the longest-tenured Athletics, set a standard with their work ethic and professionalism.

Sheets, 31, adds a dash of nuttiness, and Chavez says it's a welcome addition.

"We need some loudness every once in a while," Chavez said. "And coming from a guy who's had some experience, it's pretty good for us. I'm not loud, so someone needs to be loud."

Chavez said he heard from friends around the majors that Sheets could be a loose cannon. Ellis got a similar report from Geoff Jenkins, a teammate of Sheets' with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Reliever Michael Wuertz, who faced the Brewers plenty while pitching for the Chicago Cubs, said he knew Sheets previously only from watching him on the mound. Now the two have lockers next to each other at the Coliseum.

"Everything he portrays here in the clubhouse is everything I heard, just how good of a person he is and how good of a teammate," Wuertz said.

Sheets' fun-loving approach might ring hollow if he didn't have the credentials to go with it. Because he's a four-time All-Star, younger players pay attention to how he carries himself.

"You see a guy who's had a lot of success at the big league level, and you see that you don't have to worry about things off the field," second-year closer Andrew Bailey said, adding that Sheets also knows when to get serious. "You can still have fun in this game, treat it like Little League, I guess."

Much was made about the mentor role that Sheets could play for the A's young pitchers. But the advice is flowing both ways, as Sheets pumps his teammates for information after spending his first eight seasons in the National League.

Bailey is struck by something else: After Sheets comes out of a game, he retires to the clubhouse for a short period but returns to the dugout to cheer his teammates.

Many starters remain in the clubhouse and watch the rest of the game on TV.

"I've never seen that before, even in the minor leagues," Bailey said. "He (returns) and watches the rest of game, however much of the game is left. He wants to be out there."

Sheets said it's been easy assimilating with the A's. As for his loose approach, he doesn't see any reason to behave differently.

"Why not have fun?" he asked. "It's a long season. If you don't have fun it'd be miserable. Baseball is fun."

Suzuki set for season 3

By Mark Brown / Special to the Star-Bulletin 4/4/2010

If you're looking to speak with Kurt Suzuki after a game, be prepared to wait. If you wish to speak with Suzuki prior to a game, he's likely nowhere to be found. That's because the Wailuku, Maui, native is busy lifting weights, scouting other teams, taking extra batting practice, lifting more weights and generally exhibiting a work ethic that would push anyone to the brink.

In just two years with Oakland, Suzuki, the A's everyday catcher, has rapidly emerged as "the best kept secret in baseball," according to Bob Geren, his manager. That may not be good enough for the 26-year-old Baldwin graduate as he continues to push himself in areas unknown to most players.

Usually, he's the first in the locker room each day, and one of the last to leave. After games, reporters routinely hang around his locker for a considerable period of time because he's usually riding the stationary bike long after the final out.

"Nothing is given to you, and you need to figure things out on your own," he said the other day in the A's spring training clubhouse. "I'm looking to be a complete player and always learning. I can't see a moment where I will not stop learning."

Suzuki says "consistency" best describes his approach to the game. "Results are results, and numbers are numbers," he added. "Baseball is a game of ups and downs. I want to be as consistent as I can every year."

In his two full years at the major league level, Suzuki hit .279 in 2008 and .274 last season. In the space of one season, his RBI total jumped dramatically to a club-high 88 last season. In the process, Suzuki became only the second catcher in franchise history to lead the A's in RBIs. The other was Frankie Hayes for the 1944 Philadelphia Athletics.

Suzuki topped AL catchers in doubles, RBIs and stolen bases, and was second in runs scored and third in hits.

For 2010, Suzuki may have a chance to increase that RBI total. The A's have loaded their lineup with speed at the top, though leadoff hitter Coco Crisp is out for at least a month with a broken pinkie. Center fielder Rajai Davis is coming off a .305 season and a team-high 41 stolen bases.

For the modest Suzuki, the goal is not necessarily just to improve his offensive numbers. "I want to be known as a guy who can do it all," Suzuki said. "Players tend to concentrate on some areas of their game. I'm always looking to improve in every aspect."

Suzuki emerged as a strong force in handling the pitching staff. Adhering to that work ethic, Suzuki, before each series, meets with the coaching staff to go over hitters, study tape and then confer with pitchers.

"The biggest thing for Kurt is his calming effect on the staff," starter Brett Anderson said after going five innings last Sunday in a spring training game against Colorado. "Guys around here have a tendency to get hyped up, and he knows how to settle a pitcher down and create an intelligent pace."

To complement his bat and handling of the staff, Suzuki has developed as a premier defensive catcher. Last season, he led AL catchers in innings, putouts and total chances. He was second in the league in assists and fourth in fielding percentage. Suzuki was rated as the third best defensive catcher in the AL by Baseball America's best tools survey.

"He is a phenomenal defensive catcher," Anderson added. "I have a tendency to throw breaking balls in the dirt, and he has saved me so many times."

Suzuki has not forgotten his roots. Returning to the islands each winter, he said visits to family and friends do the mind and body well.

“There are many great players from home,” he said. “Yep, I played against (the Phillies’ Shane) Victorino in high school, and he was an amazing player. I was struck how good this guy was in every sport.”

For now, Suzuki is preparing to move ahead in a career destined to be sprinkled with achievements and accolades.

“He is an overachiever,” Geren said. “Here’s a guy from a small high school, and an area producing not many major leaguers.

“He walks on at Cal State Fullerton, and helps them win the national championship. That says something about his character and athletic ability. He simply has a strong desire to win and a great work ethic.”
