Change is a really good thing for Red Wings' Wimmers

Kevin Oklobzija – Democrat & Chronicle - 5/30/16

It's funny how life works sometimes, as Alex Wimmers has learned.

His desire to vacate the bullpen and become a starting pitcher while at Ohio State University is the reason he is now becoming a pretty good reliever in the Minnesota Twins' farm system.

As a freshman for the Buckeyes, Wimmers was a two-pitch relief pitcher. He threw a fastball and a curve, striking out 51 in 40 innings. But he let the coaches know he wanted to be part of the starting rotation as a sophomore. They were OK with that as long as he found a third pitch.

"I spent my whole freshman summer working on my change-up," he said.

He learned quickly. Over the next two Big 10 seasons, in 2009 and 2010, Wimmers went 18-2 with a 2.58 earned-run average and 222 strikeouts in 177 innings.

A first-round draft pick (21st overall) of the Twins in 2010, Wimmers has ridden that highly refined change-up to his first career stint in Triple-A. After spending the first three weeks of the season with Double-A Chattanooga, he joined the Rochester Red Wings on April 26 and has been used often in the late innings as manager Mike Quade employs the closer-by-committee approach.

On Saturday night Wimmers was given the ninth inning but failed to close the door. Brought in with a 3-2 lead, he lasted only four batters, giving up two hits, a walk and two runs as the Charlotte Knights rallied to win 4-3.

On Sunday afternoon Quade gave him a chance for immediate redemption and Wimmers delivered. He pitched a scoreless ninth to preserve a 5-3 victory over the Knights at Frontier Field.

One night you're down in the dumps and 18 hours later everyone's rushing to the mound to shake your hand.

"That's the thing as a reliever; you better be able to forget what happened last night because you're going to be called on again pretty quickly," Quade said.

Wimmers, a 27-year-old right-hander, has appeared in 12 games for the Wings. He has a 1-1 record and is 2-for-3 in save opportunities. He has surrendered 14 hits and eight walks in 17 2/3 innings while striking out 15.

That K total included one on Sunday, when he froze lefty Danny Hayes with a knee-high 2-2 change-up that danced over the outside corner for a called third strike.

"The change is such a good pitch for 'Wim,' " Quade said. "That's probably his best pitch, and he'll throw it anytime."

Wimmers said that while warming up in the bullpen on Sunday he could tell his change-up would be especially effective.

"It's crazy how it varies day to day," he said.

But the real indication comes once he's on the mound.

"Like Stu (Cliburn, his pitching coach last year in Chattanooga and now this year with the Wings) says, the hitter will tell you how good your pitches are," Wimmers said. "If they're swinging and missing, it might be a good pitch."

Lookouts drop rubber game against Smokies

Staff Reporter – Time Free Press - 5/30/16

The Chattanooga Lookouts already had their third series win of the season locked up entering Sunday's game against the Tennessee Smokies at AT&T Field.

They were unable to secure what would have been just their second three-game winning streak of the year.

After late clutch hits delivered one-run victories for the Lookouts on Friday and Saturday, they struggled to take advantage of offensive opportunities in the five-game set's finale, falling 5-1 in front of a home crowd of 5,356.

Four Smokies (23-27) pitchers scattered four hits — though they also surrendered six walks — and the Lookouts (22-28) went 1-for-8 with runners in scoring position.

Tennessee led 2-0 after solo home runs by Bijan Rademacher (to right field with two outs in the second) and Cael Brockmeyer (to left to lead off the fifth).

Chattanooga answered in its half of the fifth — Ryan Walker singled to right to score Joe Maloney, who had a one-out single and moved to second on Zach Granite's walk — but the Smokies added another run in the sixth when Mark Zagunis came home on Victor Caratini's sacrifice fly to center.

Zagunis' two-run single in the ninth completed the scoring.

The Lookouts are off today before beginning a five-game series at Birmingham on Tuesday. Tyler Danish (3-5, 4.08) is scheduled to start for the Barons, with Chattanooga's starter to be determined.

The Lookouts' next home game is June 5, with a 5:15 p.m. first pitch against Jacksonville

C.R. Kernels with walk-off win, Zander Wiel hits big home run in honor of late grandfather

Jeff Johnson – The Gazette - 5/30/16

CEDAR RAPIDS — It would have been the perfect story, but it'll have to settle for just being really good.

Zander Wiel demolished a three-run home run over 8th Avenue in the eighth inning Sunday afternoon to give the Cedar Rapids Kernels a stunning 8-7 lead over Wisconsin. That's a lot of eights.

It didn't turn out to be the winning hit, as Wisconsin tied things in the top of the ninth. A fielding error in the bottom of the inning allowed Brad Hartong to scamper home for a 9-8 Kernels victory.

Wiel's blast still was plenty special, the most appropriate way to say goodbye to his grandfather. Clyde Hicks passed away last week in North Carolina at the age of 81.

The Kernels first baseman missed two games to attend grandpa's funeral, making it back to Cedar Rapids just in time to be inserted into Sunday's lineup. He was 0-for-4 until sending a ball into the heavens.

"It absolutely was for him," Wiel said. "I feel like I had been seeing the ball well and driving the ball, but not having much luck today. But I definitely feel in that last AB, he reached down and helped me out a little bit."

Wiel said he woke up about 3:30 a.m. Sunday to make an early morning flight from Charlotte, N.C., to Chicago. Then it was another flight from Chicago to C.R.

"Got here about 10," he said. "I was completely exhausted. But I came here and was able to get some blood flowing, kind of wake up a little bit. I had to play. Jake said 'Are you good to go?' I said yeah."

"He told me before he left 'I want to play when I get back in,'" Kernels Manager Jake Mauer said. "He was ready to go."

Quite an uplifting win for the Kernels, who are 28-21 and in first place in the Midwest League's Western Division. They trailed in the sixth inning, 6-0, but somehow found a way to come back.

A four-run sixth got them within striking distance, with another run in the seventh making it 6-5. Wisconsin scored a run in the eighth.

A two-out RBI double scored the tying run for the Timber Rattlers in the ninth, the first earned run allowed against Kernels relief pitcher Michael Theofanopoulos in his 21 innings.

"They battled their tails off," Mauer said of his team. "That sixth inning was huge. Got us back into it."

Outfielder LaMonte Wade singled in the sixth to extend his streak of reaching base via hit or walk to 29 consecutive games. The teams conclude their four-game series Monday afternoon at 2:05
