Kids in free to Oakland A's home games this September 12 games, kids 12 and younger, $0

OAKLAND, Calif. – As the Oakland A's continue their push to the Postseason, kids 12 and younger can attend every September regular season home game for free. For every regularly priced individual ticket purchased, adults can receive two additional kids' tickets.

"We invite all families to bring their kids to the ballpark in September to experience the electric atmosphere of the Coliseum as we look to clinch our second consecutive Postseason berth," said Oakland A's COO Chris Giles. "Twelve games for kids 12 and younger for free."

The A's have two homestands and a number of family-friendly promotions during the 12 home games in September: Star Wars Fireworks presented by Chevron (Sept. 7); Bert "Campy" Campaneris Bobblehead presented by Chevrolet (Sept. 8); Mike Fiers No-Hitter Bobblehead presented by Chevron (Sept. 20); Evolution of Pop Fireworks presented by Lagunitas (Sept. 21); and on Kid Appreciation Day, a Ramón "Laser" Laureano Bobblehead presented by Call 811 (Sept. 22). Plus, kids can run the bases following every Sunday game (Sept. 8 and Sept. 22).

To receive two complimentary kids' tickets with the purchase of one adult ticket, visit athletics.com/family or the Oakland A's Box Office.
