Fans Can Experience the Big Leagues at A's Fantasy Camp in Mesa in January 2022

A's alumni Eric Chavez, Dallas Braden, Bert "Campy" Campaneris, Dave Stewart, and others to serve as coaches

OAKLAND, Calif. – Fans can live out their Major League dream of being a member of the Green and Gold during A's Fantasy Camp in Mesa, Arizona, from Jan. 12 to 18, 2022. Attendees will join A's alumni, including Eric Chavez, Shooty Babitt, Dallas Braden, Greg Cadaret, Bert "Campy" Campaneris, Casey Chavez, Bobby Crosby, Scott Hatteberg, Carney Lansford, Dave Stewart, and Ernie Young, for hands-on instruction, field activities, and nights filled with stories from the past. Experience packages are now on sale at athletics.com/fantasycamp.

Fantasy Camp participants will enjoy daily baseball instruction at the A's Lew Wolff Training Complex in Mesa, five days of play on the professionally maintained fields, access to the player clubhouse, and first-class treatment from staff and athletic trainers. Campers will receive a custom jersey to don during the daily activities and take home when camp breaks, along with autographs and unforgettable memories.

The All-Star Package and additional add-on opportunities are now available at athletics.com/fantasycamp. Participants will receive an early-bird rate when they register by Aug. 1, 2021. There is also an option to purchase a Fan Package for friends and family to watch A's Fantasy Camp and attend the opening night welcome reception and awards banquet.

A's Fantasy Camp is open to all individuals ages 21 and older, regardless of skill level. For more information and to secure a roster spot, visit athletics.com/fantasycamp.
