FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

January 22, 2016

Stephen Vogt to Attend Special 'School of Imagination' Winter Carnival on Monday, January 25

WHAT: A's catcher Stephen Vogt will visit with autistic and special-needs children at the School of Imagination's Winter Carnival on Monday, January 25. The day will include carnival games, face painting, a visit by A's mascot Stomper and more.

Vogt and his wife, Alyssa, are active supporters of the School of Imagination, making multiple visits to the school each year. Stephen also hosts the school at O.co Coliseum various times throughout the season, meeting with students on the field during batting practice and offering them tickets to A's games. The Vogts have been working with the school since 2014.

The School of Imagination is committed to bringing out the extraordinary in every child by providing groundbreaking, collaborative and individualized educational, therapeutic and family support services. The school offers a nurturing and positive environment through the highest quality inclusion program that supports all children, encouraging them to become positive influences on society.

WHEN: Monday, January 25
4-6 p.m. – carnival
4:45 p.m. – special announcement to be made by the school
