“Breakfast and Baseball” Session

Select group of fans welcomed into the home clubhouse for a special session

OAKLAND, Calif. – A’s President Dave Kaval, shortstop Marcus Semien, and Special Ambassador Dallas Braden welcomed 40 fans into the home clubhouse this morning, as part of a new “Breakfast and Baseball” series presented by the A’s ticket sales team. The series serves as a new business approach to connect with potential season ticket members.

During the event, which welcomed business owners and families, fans were able to participate in a question-and-answer session with Kaval, who spoke on topics such as the ballpark process, vision for the team, and plans for the 50th Anniversary Season. Fans were also able to share ideas on initiatives for next season and feedback on their needs at the new ballpark.

Semien, a Bay Area native, touched on the pride he has wearing the A’s logo and the current talent on the team. Taking questions from the group, Semien discussed his mentors and where he draws inspiration.

“We are continuing to take an innovative and dynamic approach on how we connect with our fans and grow our business,” said A’s President Dave Kaval. “This first ‘Breakfast and Baseball’ session gave fans a wonderful and unique introduction to the A’s brand, and we are excited to host more in the future.”

Photos and video from today’s event can be accessed on the A’s virtual press box at pressbox.athletics.com under “Breakfast and Baseball.”
