Oakland A's Announce New Parking Pricing Structure for Giants Fans for the 2018 Season

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

March 24, 2018

OAKLAND, Calif. – Ahead of the Oakland A's exhibition game against their cross-bay rivals at the Oakland Coliseum, the club announced that parking will cost $50 for Giants fans during the 2018 season. A's season ticket members prepaid parking will cost $10 and general A's fans will pay $30.

"Any Giants fan who yells 'Go A's' at the parking gates will be charged only $30 to enter the Oakland Coliseum," said A's President Dave Kaval.

Parking for all fans will remain free on Chevy Free Parking Tuesdays, which exclude dual events and premium opponents.

The A's will play host to the Giants in their lone home game of the Bay Bridge exhibition series on Sunday, March 25 at 1:05 p.m. The club will open the 2018 regular season at home versus the Los Angeles Angels in a rare 1:05 p.m. Opening Day game on Thursday, March 29.
